that many of them will live to a good old age.

"At Tahiti, though all evidences of the hurricane of 1906 are not yet obliterated, the group is exceedingly prosperous. Sugar is being produced and immense quantities of copra, and some cacao and vanilla. The people there are very hospitable and, while the Catinat was there, there was a continual round of entertainment.

"The Catinat will remain here about twelve days and will then proceed to the Pacific Coast. The vessel will be open to visitors Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock and on other afternoons between the same hours, except when we are coaling. It is probable that the Commodore and officers will give a matinee some time during the stay of the vessel in port."

HIGHWAY ROBBERY ATTEMPTED.

Thomas B. Walker reported at the police station late last night that he had been the victim of an attempted highway robbery in Iwilei. His story was to the effect that a number of Japanese attacked him, throwing him down and trying to go through his pockets. He managed to get on his feet and beat off his assailants, after which he made a bee line for the police station. An officer was sent to the scene of the attack, but no information as to who were concerned in the affair could be learned.

QUEENSLAND SUGAR.

The fifty-seven sugar factories in Queensland and two sugar refineries for handling raw sugar, constitute one of the most thriving industries in that Australian state. For 1905 the output of sugar reached 153,000 tons, valued at about 12 millions of dollars. The capacity of the country for producing sugar extensively is thoroughly well demonstrated. However, whether this can be done with the present supply of white labor is an industrial problem that is yet to be worked out. The expulsion of the Kanakas, or yellow South Sea Islanders from Queensland in order to secure a white Australia is still going on and a tolerable success has been realized in the manufacture of sugar with white labor. This success has been dependent to a greater or less degree upon a special bounty that has been given by the Commonwealth of Australia to white grown cane and it is hoped that the very positive views in regard to maintaining white domination in the other Australian states will not result in the destruction of the Queensland sugar industry.—Louisiana Planter.

They were elopers, and the stern parent was supposed to be in pursuit. But he wasn't. On the contrary, a telegram awaited them at the next town. "Is it forgiveness?" asked the agitated youth, as he handed it to the angelic one. She read it through and burst into tears. Then the startled youth took it and read it aloud. "Your mother and I offer congratulations. Your hasty action meets with our approval. We can now carry out a plan that we have long contemplated, and that was delayed only because we had you with us. In other words, we are about to break up housekeeping and go into a flat!"

A French writer gives this anecdote of King Edward. His majesty was driving along a country road in Scotland one day, and came upon an old market-woman struggling under a load which was more than she could manage. "You might take part of this in your carriage," cried the old woman to the king, whom she did not recognize. "Alas, my good woman," replied his majesty, "I'm very sorry, but I'm not going the same way. However, let me give you the portrait of my mother." "A lot of good that'll do me," was the reply. "Take it all the same," said the king, smiling, and he put a sovereign, bearing Queen Victoria's effigy, in the palm of the astonished old peasant.

There was an attendance of about one hundred for the regular meeting of Lei Aloha Chapter No. 3, O. E. S., last evening to welcome home the worthy matron, Mrs. W. L. Howard. The hall, Masonic Temple, was beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns and palms for the occasion and the meeting was followed by a banquet, with addresses. Mrs. Howard, who returned yesterday morning from the session of the General Grand Chapter of the O. E. S. at Milwaukee, was met at the steamer by friends with leis and escorted to her home, which had been dressed for the occasion by ladies of Lei Aloha Chapter. One of the events of the session of the General Grand Chapter was the presentation to the officers of feather and other leis by the delegate from Honolulu. Mrs. Howard returns in excellent health and spirits.

Long Beach Press, September 23.—The charming Hawaiian reception given on the lawn of the magnificent residence of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wilson on South Boyle avenue, Los Angeles, Saturday evening, was attended by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Penny of this city. Other invited guests from this city were Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Watson, who were included in the Editorial Association party who took the trip to the Hawaiian Islands a year ago. The reception was designed to be a reunion of the travel party which included forty-six persons from Southern California cities. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were members of the party and gave this delightful lawn affair in honor of their fellow travelers. Mr. Wilson is editor of the Los Angeles Journal.

The Wilson property covers two acres, the grounds being spacious and bears a wealth of old trees and immense palms. Hundreds of electric lights combined with Japanese lanterns were used in an elaborate decorative scheme. These were strung in pretty fashion throughout the trees and dotted in the thick foliage, giving the grounds the look of a true Oriental scene. Erected in the front of the residence in electric light lettering were the words "Aloha," the Hawaiian welcome.

The scene presented resembled closely the setting at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu. Booths were arranged in the leafy bowers and refreshments were served from these lovely nooks. The guests wandered through the grounds, listening to the quaint Hawaiian music and recalling the delightful sojourn on the far-off isles.

On the galleries of the Wilson residence, which sets far back in the premises, was stationed the Hawaiian Quintet, a stringed orchestra, which discoursed native airs and lent a distinctive air to the occasion. A charming group of nine beautiful Hawaiian girls, who are visiting this country under the chaperonage of Mrs. Edith Tozier Weathered, were present, and their presence added interest to the event. Mrs. Weathered is the editor of a woman's magazine in Berkeley and frequently visits in the Hawaiian Islands. This year she is chaperoning the party of delightful girls.

In the name of the Ebell Club of Long Beach, Mrs. Penny extended an invitation to these interesting young women to visit this city, and arrangements were to be made for their entertainment by the club and the Chamber of Commerce. Their time is very limited, however, and they were unable to accept the invitation, but expressed great regret in not being able to do so. This evening a large reception is being given them at the Hotel Hayward and those who attended the Wilson reception were invited to be present. They will leave Southern California shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were assisted in receiving their guests by their three daughters. Near the receiving group stood little girls with their arms laden with Hawaiian leis in all colors made from fall blossoms. They were fashioned from golden glows, purple and white asters and other flowers. Every guest was presented with a lei, which he hung about his neck in true native fashion. Near the refreshments were rustic seats, and the guests moved from booth to booth for the luncheon. The reception was one of the most delightful of the early fall events in this vicinity.
